Year of Mercy

Each Church in the Parish has on display the Logo for the Year of Mercy which was inaugurated by Pope Francis on 8th December 2015 and will run until 20th November 2016.

This Jubilee Year is a fresh opportunity for everyone to experience the great Mercy of God.

It is an invitation to start again, to walk through the doorway of God's love and forgiveness in the Sacrament of Confession. As Christians we are called to confess our sins at least once per year in preparation for the celebration of Easter, but many of the faithful avail of the Sacrament of Confession with more frequency.

We are called this year to invite others to avail of God's mercy. It is especially made to parents to make sure that their children understand the importance of Confession and help them to celebrate this Sacrament of Gods infinite love.

Pope Francis wrote "Mercy: the fundamental law that dwells in the heart of every person who looks sincerely into the eyes of his brothers and sisters on the path of life.

Mercy: the bridge that connects God and man, opening our hearts to the hope of being loved despite our sinfulness" (Misericordiae Vultus 2)

The Logo represents the Son of God taking on His shoulders the lost and the strayed. Jesus carries us, in our weakness, to the home of His Father, the fulfilment for which we have been created.

In this image the eyes of Jesus merge with the eyes of our fallen nature. Christ sees with the eyes of Adam and Adam can now see with the eyes of Christ.

Thus we can glimpse, in Christ, our new and true humanity and the future which lies ahead: to gaze on the Father, and to be held in His love. The colour of the background, the 'mandorla' go from dark to light, from the night of sin to the light of God's forgiveness.

Please give what you can to Trocaire this Lent.

Syrian Antoine Audo SJ, Chaldean Bishop of Aleppo and President of Caritas Syria, has led the Church in Aleppo for 25 years. Since the beginning of the war, Aleppo has been a battle ground and remains a city of enormous strategic importance. According to reports, more than 3,000 people have been killed in Aleppo province over the past year. In April, water to those remaining in the city was cut off. Aid is sporadic and inadequate and the fighting continues. In Syria, Caritas is operating in six regions: Damascus, Aleppo, Homs, the coastal region, Djézireh and Horan. The main aim of the mission is to offer food aid and rental assistance, as the war has deprived most Syrians of all sources of income. Another vital aspect of the Caritas mission is provision of medical support and distribution of non-food aid, such as blankets, clothing and other items as required. "It's a dramatic situation," Bishop Audo acknowledges. "When I walk the streets in Aleppo, I see around me a different kind of poverty. It's a completely new vision of the city compared to the past. "Everybody has become poor as a result of the war, even the middle classes. The middle class have become poor. The poor have become miserable," he said. To help combat such a crisis, Bishop Audo said Caritas was working "closely" with Trócaire, to implement different projects in Syria. "Trócaire is supporting us with the food and shelter programmes because we have huge needs now. He articulates a sombre message too about the crippling fear Syrians are forced to battle with on a daily basis. "For the past three years the people of Aleppo have been living in fear and in danger. We don't have any security. We live in constant threat of attack. "There have been so many victims and Caritas is working to support them," he said. Aside from tangible support through aid provided by agencies such as Trócaire and Caritas, Bishop Audo also acknowledged the need for emotional support for the suffering people of Syria, particularly through prayer. Please support Trocaire this Lent by putting what you can afford in your Trocaire box.
